The esteemed "Forbes Diamonds" ranking has once again recognized Polipak Sp. z o.o., a subsidiary of Sarantis Group in Poland, for its exceptional performance

Forbes Diamonds is an annual ranking for companies that most effectively increased their value in the last three years. For Forbes Diamonds valuation, official data from the companies were used, such as profitability (based on EBIT and ROA ratios), high current liquidity, and credit worthiness. The Group's focus behind high quality, innovation, environmentally and socially responsible practices is embraced across Polipak's operational activity too.

Polipak, is one of the Group's four production facilities specialized in the production of garbage bags. The new factory constructed within the year, emphasis has been placed on modernized machinery equipment, automated production processes and upgraded R&D, aiming on the one hand to create new high – tech products, improved in terms of ecological profile, durability and functionality and on the other hand to higher production capacity and increased efficiency.

This distinction rewards the Group's continuous effort for innovation and quality across its countries throughout its operational journey and reaffirms its remarkable profitable growth, as a result of its ability to grow and prosper despite the adverse business environment.
